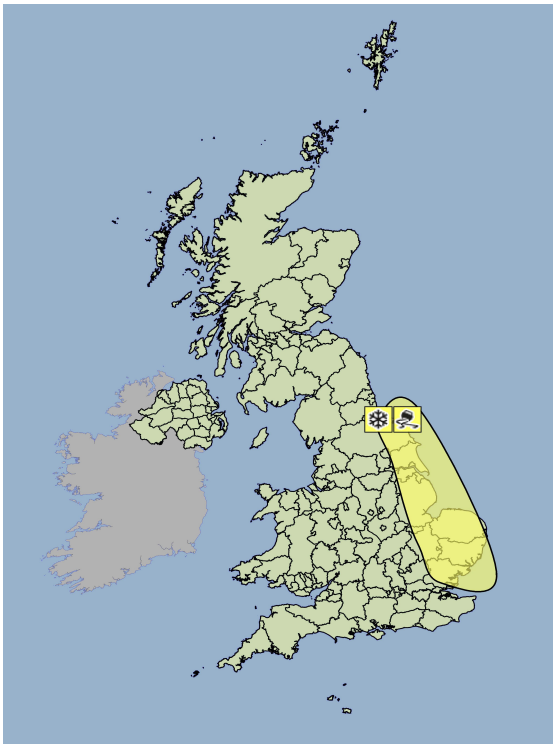
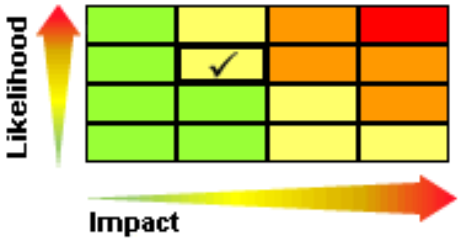
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A northerly flow will bring an air mass of arctic origin over the area. Showers will fall as snow inland and over hills, though may remain as rain or sleet near coasts, where the risk of ice may be higher.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Snow and Ice

Valid from 19:00 on Mon, 02nd Feb 2015 until 10:00 on Tue, 03rd Feb 2015

Showers of sleet and snow will affect the area later today and overnight and for a while on Tuesday morning, bringing local accumulations of 1-2 cm, perhaps around 5 cm for the North York Moors. There is also a a risk of ice on untreated surfaces.

The warning has been updated to delay onset of impacts due to the snow and slightly reduce the northward extent.

The public should be aware of locally tricky driving conditions.
